The University of Pennsylvania, as a community of scholars, depends upon mutual trust among its students, faculty, and staff, their fundamental respect for the rights, dignity and worth of each other and, their full commitment to the highest level of quality and integrity of academic work. These expectations are embodied in Penn’s Non-Discrimination Statement, the Statement on General Conduct, the Policies on Harassment, and the Code of Academic Integrity. In addition to these documents, the University has issued additional policies, guidelines and procedures to make clear the expectations of students, faculty, administrators, teaching assistants, advisors, coaches and support staff in dealing with one another. These documents appear in Policies and Procedures, a copy of which is available from the office of the Vice Provost for University Life, 200 Houston Hall, Philadelphia PA 19104-6306, (215) 898-6081.

At Penn, the safety of our students, faculty, and staff always is at the top of our agenda. We work hard to provide a secure campus, and we make available the information and resources that members of the campus community can rely upon to help make their environment safe. The following information is provided to you as part of the University’s ongoing commitment to the safety and security of everyone on campus in compliance with the Federal Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990, and The College and University Security Information Act (Pennsylvania Act 73), and regulations pursuant to the Acts. If you have any concerns, questions or comments related to these Acts or this document you may contact my office at, 3914 Locust Walk, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6192, (215) 898-7515.

—John A. Kuprevich, Commissioner of Public Safety

Federal Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990

The College and University Security Information Act (Pennsylvania Act 73)

Report of March 1994

Division of Public Safety

The administrative office responsible for security on the campus is the University of Pennsylvania Division of Public Safety reporting to the Office of the Executive Vice President. The Offices of the Division of Public Safety are located at 3914 Locust Walk and in the Annex, 3930 Irving Street. The Division has two mini-stations located at 3927 and 3401 Walnut Street. To contact the Division of Public Safety in an emergency: campus phone dial 511; blue light emergency phone or off campus dial 573-3333. For general information dial 898-7297; and for business purposes dial 898-7515.

The Commissioner of Public Safety oversees the operations of the Division of Public Safety which includes the University Police Department, and the Victim Support and Special Services Section. Public Safety also has responsibility for the coordination of security services on the campus. The Division has a current authorized strength of 115 full-time employees and utilizes approximately 60 student assistants in the Victim Support Section. Of the 115 full-time employees, approximately 100 are commissioned police personnel with five officers assigned to the Detective Bureau and an additional five officers assigned to the Victim Support Section.

University Police

The University Police Department is comprised of patrol operations and the detective bureau. Uniformed officers patrol the campus on foot, on bike and in vehicles in order to maintain high visibility within our community. These officers work very closely with the Philadelphia Police Department in patrolling and responding to the University and the community adjacent to the University. The detective bureau is responsible for conducting investigations, coordinating follow-up investigations with Philadelphia Police and other law enforcement entities, and for providing coordination of dignitary protection details.

Each police officer in the University of Pennsylvania Division of Public Safety must complete the training prescribed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania’s Act 120 (Municipal Police Officer’s Training Act, 520 hours). Police officers have full enforcement powers, including the authority to arrest individuals for criminal violations. Upon successful completion of the training at a police academy and prior to individual assignment, officers take part in a sixteen-week field officers’ training program developed and coordinated through the Division of Public Safety. They remain in a probationary status for one year after graduating from a police academy.

Each police officer receives his or her commission in accordance with P.L. 469, section 2416 of the Administrative Code of Pennsylvania and Act 149. Annual in-service training is provided by the University’s Division of Public Safety. The training includes, but is not limited to, legal update, crime prevention, firearm instruction and qualification, defensive tactics, fire safety, sensitivity and human relations, stress management, diversity training, CPR and first aid. Annual in-service training is provided in accordance with standards established by the municipal police officer education and training commission.

All police personnel, as part of their equipment, carry firearms when on duty. Officers may carry firearms in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when off duty, but must have in their possession all relevant identification pertaining to their employment as a police officer. Mandatory firearm training is held once a year for all commissioned police officers by the Department’s certified firearm instructors. Whenever a firearm is displayed or discharged, a supervisor must respond to the scene and prepare a comprehensive report. The commanding officer of Patrol Operations will then conduct a follow-up investigation. With the exception of commissioned law enforcement personnel, possession or use of air rifles or pistols, firearms, ammunition, gunpowder and/or other dangerous articles is prohibited in all University buildings and on University property.

Victim Support

The Victim Support and Special Services Section is responsible for coordinating victim support efforts, crime prevention and outreach programs, community education and information affairs.

The University of Pennsylvania has a comprehensive and coordinated Victim Support program. Public Safety personnel assigned to the Victim Support Section conduct follow up contacts with the victims of all crimes. Especially in cases of crimes against persons, they offer immediate assistance and support at the scene, provide information, accompany the victim for medical treatment or to the Philadelphia Police, and provide referral to all of the health related support entities of the University. They maintain contact with the victim throughout the investigation and any court proceedings. With permission of the victim they may intervene with their school or department to coordinate support for continuing their educational program. The objective of this effort is to allow the victim to continue to live in this academic community, to pursue and achieve their academic goals, and to do so without fear or intimidation. Victim support is a critical component of this University’s efforts to provide for a safe and comfortable environment for all of our community members.

Campus Security Operations

In addition to the University of Pennsylvania police officers, security personnel are hired by the University’s schools and departments from independent security firms and deployed throughout campus. They are trained and supervised by these firms; however, security management and training responsibilities are also assigned to University staff. Security personnel conduct interior patrols and may be used to screen admittance to residences and academic buildings. When University-related athletic events are scheduled, these personnel are used to assist in screening admittance and maintaining crowd control. The number of security officers on campus at any one particular time varies. Normally, approximately 20 are assigned to campus facilities; however, the number can increase to as high as 70 during periods of high activity.

The School of Medicine utilizes a separate uniformed security staff of University employees. They provide reception/screening at public entrances; constant monitoring of an electronic access control system, and are equipped with two-way radios maintaining around-the-clock patrols of the Medical School facilities. Students, who work with the Division of Public Safety along with residential advisors, desk safety monitors and security personnel receive security training from the Division of Public Safety. All of these security entities work very closely with Public Safety to coordinate efforts toward a safer environment.

Reporting of Crime

The Division of Public Safety maintains a 24-hour-a-day, 7-day-a-week police patrol and response operation. Through brochures and instruction, the Division of Public Safety requests that all criminal incidents occurring in the University community be reported to this agency for response and documentation. The relationship and exchange of information with city, state and federal authorities is ongoing. Incidents, commonly referred to as Part I crimes, that are responsive to the Public Safety system are reported to The Division of Public Safety are upon receipt reported to the Philadelphia Police Department. This ensures that those agencies immediately charged with providing services are completely aware of such incidents. Additionally, the Philadelphia Police Department supplies the University’s Division of Public Safety with a report of incidents that have been reported to them for the neighborhood adjoining the campus.

Criminal activity can be reported by telephone or in person at the Public Safety Office. Telephone notification of a criminal or emergency situation can be done by using an outside blue light emergency phone; by dialing 511 from any University phone or by dialing 573-3333 from outside of the University phone system. These systems are monitored at The Division of Public Safety Communication Center at 3914 Locust Walk where requests for services are documented and officers dispatched. The Communication Center is staffed seven days a week, 365 days a year, 24 hours a day to meet the needs of our community.

There are more than 200 automatic dial blue light emergency telephones located on the campus and in the campus community area. These phones, when used, automatically alert the Communication Center personnel the specific location of the caller. The computerized “511” phone system installed on campus allows a caller to utilize any University phone to reach the Public Safety Communication Center where an alert is activated automatically identifying the location of the caller. All calls received via these systems are checked by the officer assigned to the sector from which the calls originated.

For all reported criminal actions or emergencies on campus, a log is immediately dispatched to the location via the Division’s Communication Center. Reports, if necessary, are then prepared by the assigned officer(s) and processed by the Records Unit. Incidents are assigned to an investigator who is responsible for completing and following up reports provided. This individual will coordinate with Philadelphia Police if they are the primary responsible unit. Depending upon the circumstance, Victim Support personnel either respond at the time of the incident or do follow-up requests. This includes follow-up requests on their well-being, and to inform and make available to them the support services of the University. If court appearances occur, Victim Support will provide court accompaniment until adjudication is completed. If an incident involves a student who has violated policies, procedures, codes of conduct or the law then information is shared with the University Judicial Inquiry Office or the responsible University office for review and action. Information on any person arrested and charged with a criminal offense is identifiable to the University community.

Processing by the Records Unit includes placing data from reports into the division’s computer for appropriate use. The Division of Public Safety maintains a computerized database of all crimes and incidents reported to them. This includes those occurring on University property and those occurring in the community area adjacent to it. Investigative and support services follow-up reports for inquiring and when necessary. This data becomes the basis for all criminal statistical reports including submission to the FBI Uniform Crime Reporting System; annual reports for compliance with the Pennsylvania College and University Security Information Act, and our Campus Community Crime Report.

The Communication Center

The Communication Center is responsible for the Division of Public Safety and all University police vehicles monitor the Philadelphia Police radio frequency covering the University community. Officers respond to assist Philadelphia Police in certain situations and respond to those situations or circumstances either owned by the University or associated with a recognized student organization for response and documentation purposes.

University detectives additionally conduct follow-up with the Philadelphia Police district in order to obtain any reports of incidents provided to Philadelphia Police, but not reported to University Police or captured by one of the above mechanisms, involving University-owned property or non-University-owned properties associated with a recognized student organization as defined by this Act.

Dissemination of Criminal Information

Crimes against persons, on and off campus, are published in the daily student newspaper, and in Almanac Supplement. In addition, reports on property crimes that occur in various sectors of the campus are provided and published by both of these media. Building administrators and departments receive weekly reports on incidents occurring at their facility.

The Division of Public Safety maintains an Incident Journal in its Communication Center at 3914 Locust Walk. This journal is a chronological listing of all crimes and significant incidents responded to and documented by University Police. This journal includes the names of persons arrested and charged in criminal situations, and is open at anytime for review by any member of our community. Incident logging is completed on a shift by shift basis. In cases where immediate notification of our community is advised in order to prevent additional incidents, Public Safety develops and distributes a “Crime Alert”. This document normally provides facts about the incident including date, time, location, type of incident and any relevant description or composite of suspects which may be available. Readers are advised to contact University Police with any information pertaining to the incident; and safety tips are provided as a precautionary measure. A list of information and an emergency response telephone number may be provided over a computerized electronic bulletin board existing within the University environment.

Acquaintance Rape and Sexual Violence Policy

The University of Pennsylvania seeks a safe and healthy environment for all community members and visitors. Thus Penn has developed the following policy on acquaintance rape/sexual violence to set forth definitions, to reaffirm Penn’s commitment to providing a safe environment to prevent situations of rape/sexual violence, to provide education, support, reporting, adjudication, protection from retaliation, and to identify the range of sanctions. The University will also provide multiple access points for dissemination of acquaintance rape/sexual violence policy.

The University needs a specific policy on rape and sexual violence because the prevalence of rape and sexual violence on college campuses is alarming. Statistics compel universities throughout the country to acknowledge that significant numbers of their members have been raped or will be raped. Given Penn’s history of providing national leadership with respect to rape and sexual assault education and counseling, it is timely for Penn to continue this role by developing and utilizing specific procedures for the investigation, resolution, and consequences of this crime undermining the trust essential to the process of education and the mission of the University. This crime also conflicts with our very basic standards of behavior. Indeed, this form of sexual violence is particularly damaging to our community because victims/survivors often are acquainted with and must continue to interact with their assailants. Moreover, for many men and women it is difficult to define this behavior as rape.

Definition

Acquaintance rape is a form of sexual violence. For the purpose of this policy, acquaintance rape/sexual violence is defined as any act in which a member of the University community forces another with whom he or she is acquainted to engage in sexual activity against her or his will or without her or his consent. Assent shall not constitute consent if it is given by a person who because of youth, mental disability or intoxication is unable to make a reasonable judgment concerning the nature of or harmfulness of the activity. This policy applies to groups as well as individuals.

Intervention

The University of Pennsylvania will provide resources to support victims/survivors, will utilize University fact-finding and disciplinary procedures with appropriate jurisdiction, will publish annual statistics on incidents of acquaintance rape and other forms of sexual violence, and will provide comprehensive education for the prevention of sexual violence including acquaintance rape at the University of Pennsylvania. Incidents involving appropriate departments will be addressed promptly and will be treated confidentially. In addition, the University will, as appropriate, inform members of the Penn community when an incident has been so reported.

The procedures which implement this policy will take into account the need to investigate charges which may be filed and the right to confidentiality to all involved parties. When appropriate, after an incident occurs, outreach and support to faculty, students and staff affected by the particular incident will be part of Penn’s response. This support may include release time, leaves or other accommodations.

Procedures for Responding to Rape and Sexual Violence

If a sex offense occurs the victim/survivor is encouraged to come forward for support and assistance and to contact the incident's cognizant office to ensure that the victim/survivor is encouraged to contact the Victim Support and Special Services (VS&SS) Section of Public Safety immediately after the assault. Contact through the on campus police emergency line is also encouraged and often these initial reports are received at the Penn Women’s Center (PWC).

When a sex offense has occurred, rape and sexual violence victims are instructed to preserve any potential evidence by not showering or straightening up the scene of the crime. Once in contact with the Victim Support and Special Services (VS&SS) office, the individual is accompanied to the rape trauma unit at Jefferson Hospital for immediate medical attention. The VS&SS staff will advise the victim/survivor of their options for reporting the incident to appropriate police, if police involvement is desired. The VS&SS staff will also be available to provide education, support, and information on reporting the incident.

The individual is apprised of all options for filing a complaint both on campus and off including the right to report fully to the Philadelphia Police, to file an anonymous report with Philadelphia Police or to file no report with the Philadelphia Police. The choice is solely up to the individual. The VS&SS staff outlines the procedures and potential consequences of all these options.

Safety

The complexity of the issues associated with acquaintance rape often results in a report of the incident well after its occurrence. Since evidence is not likely to be collected, the individual is encouraged to seek medical attention if it has not already been sought. Arrangements with Student Health Service, Women’s Health to provide a sensitive exam is made at the individual’s request.
The Victim Support and Special Services Section and the Penn Women’s Center respond to rape victims/survivors. The Victim Support and Special Services Director serves as point person in coordinating support for students and faculty who have been victimized. This support includes on campus individual or group counseling with rape trauma specialists at the Penn Women’s Center, court accompaniment, meetings with the District Attorney or follow up contact with Philadelphia police, and if necessary contact pr as if completing assignments is difficult. In addition, reassignment of living space and other appropriate support is provided. In cases involving Penn students as alleged perpetrators, and upon request, the VSS&S staff will explain the relevant processes for filing internal complaints. Victim survivors are also informed of a variety of community-based services including the 24 hour hotline staffed by Philadelphia’s Women Organized Against Rape (WOAR).

Educational Programming

Educational programs addressing the issues of rape and sexual violence have been ongoing at the University of Pennsylvania for over twenty years. Typically prevention/education programs include presentations at new student orientation and in residences as well as campus-wide seminars. Penn’s nationally recognized student-run peer education program STAAAR (Students Together Against Acquaintance Rape) provides education/orientation workshops to student organizations, fraternities and sororities, dormitory groups, athletic teams, within the classroom, and to other University departments upon request.

In addition to reaching out to its students, the University of Pennsylvania also trains its staff on the issues of rape and sexual violence to enable them to better respond to students and others in need. Training programs are conducted on an ongoing basis and are targeted to a variety of staff including campus police, athletic coaches, University Life staff, members of the University’s campus ministry, and residential staff. This training focuses on Penn’s Acquaintance Rape/Sexual Violence policy, the associated procedures and resources both on campus and off campus, as well as proactive strategies for prevention.

Sanctions

University sanctions will be imposed in accordance with appropriate University processes upon persons found to have violated this policy. These sanctions can include but are not limited to suspension, expulsion, and/or separation from the University. In any disciplinary proceeding brought under the Charter of the University’s Student Judicial System, the accused and the accused shall be entitled to the same opportunities to have others present; and both the accuser and the accused shall be informed of the outcome of the proceeding. In addition, an individual charged may be subject to prosecution by the Office of the District Attorney under Pennsylvania Criminal Statutes.

Safety and Security Related Programs

The University has a comprehensive safety-related transit system for all members of our community. This system incorporates a walking escort system with a driving support basis and is targeted to a variety of campus areas. These include: University Life staff, members of the University’s campus ministry, and residential staff. This training focuses on Penn’s Acquaintance Rape/Sexual Violence policy, the associated procedures and resources both on campus and off campus, as well as proactive strategies for prevention.

Use of Facilities

The facilities of the University of Pennsylvania exist for the primary purpose of education. Priority for the use of facilities is given first to University academic activities and second to programs of University groups. The decision to permit or restrict the use of facilities by University groups will be based first on the prior academic commitment of that facility, then on prior reservation by another University group. University groups, existing almost entirely of students, faculty, administrators, staff, or alumni of the University, or combinations thereof, whose primary activities are based at or directly related to the University. Dates that remain open after the spring reservation for University groups may be assigned to approved non-University organizations upon request.

All groups using University facilities must include in their advertising promotional materials and other literature distributed on campus the name of the organization (prominently displayed) and sufficient information about the group and the activities it intends to conduct for readers to understand the group's purpose. Deceptive advertising, soliciting, and recruiting practices are unacceptable. The director of student Activities and Facilities determines whether adequate standards of disclosure are met. Groups failing to comply with this regulation can be denied access to University facilities for as long as the director may determine. The director’s decision may be reviewed by the Committee on Open Expression.

Granting of permission to use University facilities does not constitute University endorsement of the activities or purposes of the user group. Unauthorized use of the University name or location to indicate the location of an event is prohibited.

Drug and Alcohol Policies

The University of Pennsylvania seeks to encourage and sustain an academic environment that both respects individual freedom and promotes the health, safety and welfare of all members of its community. In keeping with these objectives, the University has established a policy and guidelines governing the possession, sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages on the University campus, and conforming to applicable federal laws and laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. These policies are the University’s Drug and Alcohol Policy and the Use of Alcohol Policy. Underage possession and/or consumption of alcoholic beverages is not permitted on property owned or controlled by the University. Intentionally or knowingly selling, buying, or possessing any “furnishing” alcoholic beverages to persons under the age of 21, or to persons obviously inebriated, is not permitted on property owned or controlled by the University. Pennsylvania law currently defines “furnishing” as “supplying, giving, or providing to, allowing a minor to possess on premises or property owned or controlled by the person charged.”

Consistent with its educational mission, the University sponsors programs that promote awareness of the physical, psychological, and behavioral effects of alcohol consumption. The University also assists its members in finding alternatives to alcoholic beverages for promoting social interaction and stress reduction, and it provides services and resources for community members who experience alcohol-related difficulties. Together, Penn’s alcohol policy and programs are intended to encourage its members to make safe, responsible, and legal decisions about the use of alcohol.

The use of narcotics and dangerous drugs on University premises, as elsewhere, is illegal. The University will not shield students from the possible legal consequences of individual drug use. University employees, as a condition of employment, are required to abide by the University’s Drug-Free Workplace Policy, and the Drug and Alcohol Policy which prohibits the unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispensation, sale, possession or use of any drug by its employees in its workplace. The University, in its efforts to promote a drug-free environment, will cooperate with the appropriate law enforcement agencies. The University is concerned about the possible physical, emotional, and psychological effects of drug use on the individual user, and about the impact that such use has on other members of the University community. Staff and students have developed educational programs that give information about the implications of drug use. Students are invited to consider counseling as a constructive element of the University for confidential discussion of questions and problems encountered in this area.

Disciplinary Policies

A student convicted of a criminal offense may be disciplined under the University’s General Conduct Policy, which states that failure to comply with University, city, state, or federal laws and regulations can result in appropriate disciplinary action. Among the sanctions available, after a hearing of a charge pursuant to the Charter of the University’s Student Judicial System, are disciplinary probation for a specified period, withdrawal of privileges, indefinite suspension, termination of probation, indefinite suspension without automatic right of readmission, and expulsion. Further, in extraordinary circumstances, when a student’s presence on campus is a threat to order, health or safety, the Vice Provost for University Life may suspend a student temporarily, pending a hearing.

Except for applicants to some graduate or professional schools, such as the Law School, prospective students are not asked about previous criminal records. All incoming employees and applicants to the University’s employment application asks applicants whether in the last 10 years they have been convicted of any felony, crime of violence, dishonesty, or any crime against property or involving the threat of violence, and if so, to provide an explanation of the dates of conviction. Prior convictions do not automatically serve to disqualify an applicant from employment. Employment decisions are made based on the overall records of the applicant pool.

ALMANAC SUPPLEMENT April 12, 1994

and a criminal record, if relevant to the job in question, is a factor which is considered. Pursuant to the University’s Drug-Free Workplace Policy, and the Drug and Alcohol Policy, any employee who is convicted under a criminal drug statute for a violation occurring in the workplace is subject to disciplinary procedures, and may be required to participate in a drug abuse assistance or rehabilitation program.

Residences

The University of Pennsylvania provides undergraduate and graduate student housing on campus and in fraternities and sororities. The on-campus residences provide for single, double, triple and quad configurations in traditional dormitories, suites and apartments. All buildings are coed. Families can be accommodated in the graduate residences.

First-year undergraduate housing applications received by May 1 are randomly processed by a computer program. The program attempts to assign students to one of a student’s three top choices. Students applying after May 1, including transfer students, are processed in the order of their application receipt. Upperclass students are assigned through a retention lottery or special program process (i.e., College House, First Year House or Living-Learning Program). Graduate students are assigned in the order of their application receipt.

Room changes based on availability of space are made during three scheduled periods in October, December and February. Advance notice and specific dates are provided in the campus news media and are posted in the residences. Emergency room changes (health, safety, serious roommate conflicts or violation of residential policy) can be made at any time upon the recommendation of a staff member.

Anyone without a PENNcard, the University’s identification, is a “visitor” to a residence. This includes University community members without their cards and all guests. Visitors must go to a building check point, show identification and wait while the receptionist obtains approval from a resident host (or from a University office in the case of staff). The resident host must be with the visitor or telephoned by the receptionist. Each host completes a pass with a security monitor. During periods when buildings are completely locked and without guard and receptionist services, residents monitor visitor access independently.

All entrances to residences are locked or watched by security monitors. Access to residences is limited to residents, faculty, staff, and authorized contractors who are admitted during certain hours only and upon presentation of a valid F.D. Access to most residences is monitored electronically through a card access system. All student rooms are equipped with dead bolts or Mortis locks with anti-carding devices. Windows less than seven feet from the ground have bars or security screens.

Each residence is administered through the residential services branch of the Department of Residential Living. There are 18 access points in residences that are staffed by security monitors. Security monitors consist of three categories of employees; student security marshals, professional security guards from an outside contractor, and desk receptionists. The type of security personnel placed at each location depends on a variety of factors; size of building, number of occupants, time of day and high vs. low occupancy periods. All residential security monitors receive training. Follow-up meetings are held throughout the semester. Each security monitor also receives a manual outlining specific instructions, job responsibilities and emergency procedures.

The University of Pennsylvania Division of Public Safety sponsors educational programs on safety and security each semester. Campus police officers periodically attend residential programs.

The residence hall Division of Public Safety lieutenants assigned to them. All residential advisors discuss safety and security at their first floor meetings. Introductory literature sent to students includes detailed summaries of security procedures and safety suggestions.

During the winter vacation between semesters: The Department of Residential Living maintains three undergraduate high rises, two graduate high rises, and one to three undergraduate/graduate low rise buildings as open residences. All other residences are closed to students. Students living in closed buildings may stay with friends in an open building during the winter vacation; however, most go home.

Short-term University guests sponsored by a University office or department may be accommodated in designated rooms, and these guests receive special identification. Students are permitted to have short-term overnight guests and these persons may be issued special identification; however, they must be accompanied by their host each time they enter a residence. A list of host responsibilities and guest rules is published in the Residential Occupancy Agreement and Handbook.

Federal Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990

University of Pennsylvania Campus Crime Statistical Data

The Federal Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990 mandates the release of specific crime and arrest statistics which occur on campus to all students, employees and to all prospective students and employees upon request. This document is being released in compliance with the Pennsylvania College and the University Security Information Act 73 of 1988, mandates the release of specific crime and arrest statistics which occur on campus to all students, employees and to all prospective students and employees upon request. The rate was based on the actual number of Full Time Equivalent (FTE) students and employees.

In 1992, the law changed. It now mandates the use of an index rate—an index based on the premise of the community’s being composed of 100,000 people. To establish consistency of reporting over the past three years, in the following table the past data (1991 and 1992) have been restated using the index basis. Actual FTE: population for 1991 was 43,675; for 1992 it was 44,602 and for 1993 it is 46,342.
