The Year of Evolution kicked off with the opening of Surviving: The Body of Evidence. This interactive exhibition explores the history of forensic science and its profound impact on human society.

Above: Dr. Janet Monge, Acting Curator, Office of Education, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and member of the Department of Criminal Justice.
Right: Dr. Alan Mann, co-curator of the exhibit.

May Exhibits

Left: In the Surviving: The Body of Evidence exhibit, visitors can see both real and reconstructed skeletal remains. The exhibit features the forensic science behind the cases of serial killer Blackie the Butcher, Dr. Charles C. Hafner, and the Hindenburg disaster. The exhibit also includes the remains of a 400,000-year-old Neanderthal and a 3,000-year-old Egyptian mummy.

Right: The exhibition includes interactive displays and multimedia presentations that allow visitors to explore the science of forensic anthropology and the role of forensic scientists in solving crimes.
