Penn to Build New College House Near 40th and Walnut Streets

The University of Pennsylvania Board of Trustees approved the design for a new 250,000 sq. ft. residential building, New College House West. The building will become the second to be built specifically designed as a college house, Penn’s residential system that brings together undergraduates, faculty, staff and graduate students to form shared communities within the larger context of Penn’s vibrant campus.

The new undergraduate college house will occupy a site bounded by Locust Walk, Walnut Street and 40th Street, adjacent to the West Philadelphia branch of the Free Library of Philadelphia, which will remain open.

“This exciting project will serve as a new western gateway to campus,” said Penn President Amy Gutmann. “Since the College House system was introduced in 1998, it has become enormously successful, forming intellectually dynamic and supportive, shared communities within the larger Penn community. Life in a college house has come to define the undergraduate experience at Penn, providing learning and co-curricular opportunities outside of the conventional classroom.

New College House West will enable more Penn students to participate in the College House system, and it will also give us the capacity and flexibility to continue renovating existing student housing.

Designed by Philadelphia-based, internationally-renowned Bohlin Cywinski Jackson Architects, the firm that recently completed the New College House at Hill Field, the three-year 450-bed residence will house sophomores, juniors and seniors. With a mix of 6- and 5-bedroom two-bath suites and 4-, 3- and 2-bedroom one-bath suites, it will also provide many programmatic common areas including study, living, seminar and music practice rooms.

Penn will continue its commitment to sustainable design, targeting LEED Silver certification for this project. The design introduces both a private courtyard for residents and green roofs while maintaining public green spaces adjacent to Locust Walk, north of Harwan Hall and east of Rodin College House, as well as the space near Gregory College House. These common green spaces are openly accessible to public pedestrians and available as gathering spaces for University and community events. During construction alternative spaces will be identified on Penn’s campus for hosting such events.

The $163-million project will begin construction in spring of 2018 and is expected to open for occupancy in fall of 2021.

Marybeth Gasman: Judy & Howard Berkowitz Professor in Education

Marybeth Gasman, a Penn GSE professor of higher education, has been named the Judy & Howard Berkowitz Professor in Education.

Dr. Gasman is a noted education historian whose areas of expertise include the history of American higher education, historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs), minority serving institutions (MSIs), African American leadership, and philanthropy. Dr. Gasman is the founding director of the Minority Serving Institutions (Almanac January 21, 2014). The Center, which launched in 2014, works to amplify MSIs’ contributions and support them and those scholars interested in them. Dr. Gasman holds secondary appointments in history, Africana studies, and the School of Social Policy & Practice at Penn.

Dr. Gasman has written or edited 22 books, eight of which have won research awards, including Educating a Diverse Nation, published in 2015. She has written over 200 peer-reviewed articles, scholarly essays, and book chapters. In addition to her numerous academic publications, she is a regular contributor to The Chronicle of Higher Education, Diverse, Inside Higher Education, The Washington Post, and The New York Times. Her research has been featured in The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Wall Street Journal, Time, CNN, and on National Public Radio. An outspoken and prolific writer, Dr. Gasman has penned 350 opinion articles for the nation’s newspapers and magazines and is ranked by Education Week as one of the most influential education scholars in the nation. Last year, she was named one of LinkedIn’s Top Voices in Education.

“Marybeth Gasman is both passionate and highly productive—a wonderful combination in a scholar of her caliber,” said Penn GSE Dean Pam Grossman. “The reach and scale of her work on minority-serving institutions is unrivaled, and this endowed chair underscores GSE’s commitment to the impact of her work.”

Dr. Gasman has raised over $22 million in grant funding to support her research and that of her students, mentees and MSI partners. In addition to her teaching and research duties, she serves on the board of trustees of The College Board and on Paul Quinn College, a small, urban, HBCU in Dallas, Texas.

Dr. Gasman has received the University of Pennsylvania’s Provost Award for Distinguished PhD Teaching and Mentoring (Almanac April 14, 2015) and served as the dissertation chair for nearly 65 doctoral students since she joined the University in 2003.

The Judy & Howard Berkowitz Chair was endowed in 1995 with a gift from Judy and Howard Berkowitz. This Chair was donated by the Berkowitz family in order to facilitate the study of ethnic relations, cultural pluralism, and diversity as they relate to education. The Chair was most recently held by Penn GSE’s Stanton Wortham, who became dean of the Boston College Lynch School of Education in the summer of 2016.

Celebrating a Quarter Century

The Barbara and Edward Netter Center for Community Partnerships is celebrating its 25th anniversary with a Conference on November 16-17, Higher Education-Community Partnerships for Democracy and Social Change, which has been the focus of the Center since founding director Ira Harkavy began the Center (Almanac July 14, 1992). (See page 2 for more about the Center.)
The following is published in accordance with the Faculty Senate Rules. Among other purposes, the publication of SEC actions is intended to stimulate discussion among the constituencies and their representatives. Chair’s Report. Faculty Senate Chair Santosh Venkatesh described plans for upcoming SEC meetings. He invited SEC members to input on which topics should be given time for plenary discussion at future SEC meetings this year. He then reported on the planning for the Teach-In, which will be held around campus during the week of March 19-22, 2018. Multiple planning groups are developing programming on topics in diverse areas including, but not limited to, the history of science, evolution, immigration, climate science, gun violence, vaccine research, symbolism, artificial intelligence, and the role of the university in the 21st century. A website is under development that should launch by early in the spring semester. Any faculty, students, and staff who wish to get involved with the planning effort are encouraged to contact the Senate office.

Past-Chair’s Report. On behalf of Faculty Senate Past Chair Laura Perna, Prof. Venkatesh informed the group that the Campaign for Community Steering Committee has scheduled a meeting for December 7. The Campus Conversation, hosted by President Amy Gutmann and Provost Wendell Pritchett on October 30, was an exemplar of the kind of initiatives under way as part of the Campaign for Community. Faculty members are encouraged to provide feedback on the Campus Conversation and the Campaign itself by contacting the Senate office.

2018 Senate Nominating Committee. SEC members voted to adopt a membership slate for the 2018 Senate Nominating Committee. The slate is published in this issue of Almanac. For Comment.

Update from the Office of the President. President Amy Gutmann delivered a progress report on accomplishments derived from the Penn Compact 2020. She described the accomplishments across three categories: Inclusion, Innovation, and Impact.

Update from the Office of Penn Global. Vice Provost for Global Initiatives Ezekiel Emanuel and Executive Director for Global Initiatives Amy Gadsden shared with SEC members the “Strategic Framework for Global Initiatives, 2018-2023,” building upon a recently concluded five-year strategic plan. Three pillars for global engagement were described: Educating global citizens by preparing students for an increasingly globalized society; Catalyzing transformative ideas by strengthening Penn as a global agenda setter; and Bringing the world to Penn (and Penn to the world) by promoting healthy, inspiring, and productive lives.

From the Senate Office

In 1983 two important organizations were created: the West Philadelphia Partnership, a 501(c)(3), and the Office of Community-Oriented Policy Studies at Penn, the predecessor to the Penn Program for Public Service, established in 1988 in the School of Arts & Sciences. Then, in 1985, the seeds for academically based community service courses were planted when four undergraduate students proposed a summer job training corps for their honors seminar class at Penn. The project, known as the West Philadelphia Improvement Corps (WEPIC), became an after-school program at a local elementary school. Over the next five years, WEPEC grew, evolved and thrived, and the idea of the university-assisted community school was born.

In 1992, with these initiatives indicating the potential for success, the University announced a commitment to focus its resources and energy on the revitalization of West Philadelphia. The Center for Community Partnerships was formed to direct this large and important effort. The Center’s work has created a new vision for university-community relations. Each semester hundreds of undergraduate and graduate students go into West Philadelphia to teach and to learn. Working with faculty, they tackle critical community issues around the environment, health, the arts and education. Enduring democratic collaborations, now in place with public schools, community organizations and communities of faith, are generating new areas for mutual efforts.

In 2007, the Center was renamed the Barbara and Edward Netter Center for Community Partnerships in recognition of an extraordinary generosity commitment (Almanac: October 2, 2007) from Barbara Netter, Penn parent (’83), and her late husband Edward Netter, Penn alumnus (C’53) and parent (’83).

The Mission of the Netter Center:

The Center is Penn’s primary vehicle for bringing to bear the broad range of human knowledge needed to solve the complex, comprehensive, and interconnected problems of the American city so that West Philadelphia, Philadelphia, the University itself, and society benefit. The Netter Center is based on three core propositions:

- Penn’s future and the future of West Philadelphia/Philadelphia are intertwined.
- Penn can make a significant contribution to improving the quality of life in West Philadelphia/Philadelphia.
- Penn can enhance its overall mission of advancing and transmitting knowledge by helping to improve the quality of life in West Philadelphia/Philadelphia.

The Netter Center, which is housed in the Office of Government and Community Affairs, works to achieve the following objectives:

- Improve the internal coordination and collaboration of all university-wide community service programs
- Develop democratic, mutually beneficial, mutually respectful partnerships between the University and the community
- Create and strengthen local, national and international networks of institutions of higher education committed to engagement with their local communities.

Through the Netter Center, Penn engages in three types of activities: academically based community service (ABCS), direct traditional service, and community development. ABCS is at the core of the Center’s work. It is service rooted in and linked to teaching and/or research, and encompasses problem-oriented research and teaching, as well as service learning emphasizing student and faculty reflection. Approximately 200 ABCS courses have been developed to link Penn students to work in the community, with 60-65 offered each year. A steady increase in the number of ABCS has occurred since 1992 when only four were offered.

ALMANAC November 7, 2017
Carnegie Grant for Perry World House: Building a New Hub for Penn’s Growing International Activities

The University of Pennsylvania’s Perry World House has been awarded a two-year, $498,000 grant from Carnegie Corporation of New York for research and programming to impact critical emerging global policy issues.

Through this grant, Perry World House, Penn’s recently-launched global research and policy center, will work to bridge the gap between academia and the policy world around the most pressing issues in global affairs.

“This is a remarkable opportunity to do the work that matters most in advancing academic research and insights to policy change,” said Michael Horowitz, principal investigator, associate director of Perry World House and professor of political science. “The grant will support our work on emerging and complex global policy issue areas where academics have great research, insights and roles to play.”

The grant from Carnegie Corporation of New York enables Perry World House, through its Global Innovation Program, to create a series of multi-disciplinary workshops that connect academics and policymakers in several critical global policy areas; support policy-relevant research by Penn academic units; and create new media platforms—podcasts, video shorts, blogs, etc.—to disseminate findings from these workshops in ways that will generate faster and broader change.

Deaths

Yoji Kondo, Astronomy

Yoji Kondo, Gr’61, a retired astrophysicist and science-fiction writer who worked at University of Pennsylvania in the 1970s and ’80s, died on October 9. He was 84.

Dr. Kondo was born and raised in Hitachi, Japan. He earned a bachelor’s from Tokyo University’s School of Foreign Studies in 1958 and a doctorate in astronomy from Penn.

With a postdoctoral fellowship from the National Academy of Sciences, he spent three years conducting research at the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center. In 1968, he became head of the Center for the International Ultraviolet Explorer and for the International Ultraviolet Explorer and for the Extreme Ultraviolet Explorer.

He was appointed an adjunct professor of astronomy at Penn in 1978, a position he held until 1987.

He also taught at the University of Houston, George Mason University, the Institute of Space and Astronautical Research at the University of La Plata in Argentina and Catholic University of America.

Dr. Kondo wrote science fiction under the name Eric Kotani. He collaborated with author John Maddox Roberts on a popular sci-fi book series that included Island Worlds, Delta Pavonis and Legacy of Prometheus and wrote a novel for Simon & Schuster’s Stark Trek series titled Death of a Neutron Star.

He received the NASA Medal for Exceptional Scientific Achievement, the Federal Design Achievement Award and the National Space Club’s Science Award. He also received the Isaac Asimov Memorial Award from the Lunarians, the New York Science Fiction Society in 2003.

He is survived by his wife of 52 years, Ursula (Tutermann); daughters, Beatrice, Cynthia and Angela; brother, Akira; and three grandchildren.

Paul Soven, Physics

Paul Soven, professor emeritus of physics at the University of Pennsylvania, died on Sept. 17. He was 77.

Dr. Soven was born in New York City and graduated from Brooklyn Technical High School. He earned a bachelor’s degree from City College of New York in 1960, a master’s from the University of Chicago in 1961 and a PhD from University of Chicago in 1965.

He joined Penn faculty in 1967 as assistant professor of physics. He became associate professor in 1971 and became a professor in 1976.

He was associate chair of graduate affairs from 1976-1979 and associate chair of undergraduate affairs from 1985-1989.

He was awarded an Alfred P. Sloan Fellowship in 1970 and a Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching in 1974.

He retired in 2009 and was named professor emeritus in 2011.

He is survived by his wife of 56 years, Margot; sons, Joshua and Andrew; daughter, Ruth; and four grandchildren.

Summary Annual Report for the University of Pennsylvania Basic Plan

This is a summary of the annual report of The University of Pennsylvania Basic Plan (Plan No. 028) sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania, EIN: 23-1352685, for the period January 1, 2016 through December 31, 2016. This annual report has been filed with the Employee Benefits Security Administration, as required under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA).

Basic Financial Statement

Benefits under the plan are provided through unallocated insurance contracts and a trust fund. Plan expenses were $19,598,831. These expenses included $7,475 in administrative expenses and $19,591,356 in benefits paid to participants and beneficiaries. A total of 23,052 persons were participants in or beneficiaries of the plan at the end of the plan year.

The value of plan assets, after subtracting liabilities of the plan, was $813,770,105 as of December 31, 2016, compared to $721,672,541 as of January 1, 2016. During the plan year the plan experienced an increase in its net assets of $92,097,564. This increase includes net unrealized depreciation in the value of plan assets; that is, the difference between the value of the plan’s assets at the beginning of the plan year and the cost of assets acquired during the plan year. The plan had total income of $111,696,395, including employer contributions of $51,295,139, employee rollover contributions of $2,687,742, gains from investments of $57,702,479 and other income of $11,035.

Volunteer Opportunities

Dear Penn Community,

Thank you so very much for your continued generosity. The Netter Center recently piloted a new program, Penn Adopts a Classroom, with great results. Several departments and individuals have provided needed items to enhance the learning of students in our local schools, creating a transformation to a beautiful, colorful and welcoming space for future generations, created by Research Services and coordinated by Lauren Oshana. Teachers received items from their wish list as well as much needed general supplies, Additionally, the Annual School Supplies Drive benefit the area. We were also able to respond to various requests for the donations.

The Netter Center also reincarnated a program from the past now called UACS Nights (University Assisted Community Schools Nights) where many volunteers with a variety of expertise teach a variety of classes to members of the surrounding community. Classes in career planning, Zumba, cardio-boxing, computers, first aid, and more are held at West Philadelphia High School on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6-8 p.m. We invite you to share your expertise with others as well as to join us as we have fun and learn from each other.

The holiday season is almost here. The Penn community has a huge impact during the holiday season on our surrounding community. We look forward to working with you again this year as we strive to make a difference in the lives of our deserving neighbors.

Below is a special opportunity to bring joy during the holidays. I look forward to working with you as we strive to be good neighbors.

We also encourage you to support the disaster relief efforts addressing the unprecedented number of catastrophic events being experienced in various parts of the country.

Thank you for all you do.

—Isabel Sampson-Mapp, Associate Director, Netter Center for Community Partnerships

Holiday Food Drive Now through November 16: Let’s Take a Bite out of Hunger!

In the season of Thanks and Giving, please contribute to the Annual Food Drive at the University coordinated by Penn VIPS. We are collecting non-perishable foods (cans and boxed foods) as well as turkeys.

Donations will re-stock the pantry at Baring House and the People’s Emergency Shelter as well as help many deserving families in the area.

Please take donated items to one of our conveniently located drop sites listed below:

Internship Program

How often do we get the opportunity to make a significant difference in the life of a young resident of the West Philadelphia community in which Penn is located?

The Netter Center for Community Partnerships has developed an internship program for high school seniors from two West Philadelphia high schools. A student, at no cost to you, would work at your site at Penn for approximately four hours per week during the school day. In return, the student would receive critical exposure to a professional setting and help in developing the soft skills that employers value. The students would receive ongoing professional development from the Netter Center throughout the year, and a Netter staff member would visit the worksite on a regular basis to ensure a positive experience for both student and staff. The program is scheduled to start in late October 2017 and to continue through May 2018.

If you have any questions, or to RSVP, please email Theresa Simmonds at theresa@fas.upenn.edu or call (215) 301-2656. We look forward to hearing from you and hope that you will consider working with a student.

ALMANAC November 7, 2017
Veterans Day Flag Raising: November 10

The Veterans at Penn Committee invites the Penn community to attend the Veterans Day Flag Raising Ceremony on College Green, on Veterans Day, Friday, November 10. It will start at 9 a.m. with Catherine Revak, U.S. Army veteran and SP2 doctoral student, giving opening remarks.

The Presentation of Colors will be by the Penn Navy ROTC Honor Guard and Battalion, who will also lead the Pledge of Allegiance. Karis L. Stephen, a student at Platt Performing Arts, will perform “The Star Spangled Banner” and “America the Beautiful.

The Rev. Charles Howard, University Chaplain, will give the invocation and Aronda Smith-Benson, a U.S. Army veteran and graduate student in SAS, will be the keynote speaker.

The Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, VPUU: Veteran Upward Bound Program and the School of Engineering & Applied Sciences are sponsoring this annual event.

The rain location is the Benjamin Franklin Room in Houston Hall.

For more than two centuries, military veterans have been a part of the Penn community. For a brief history of veterans at Penn, see the Benchmarks article (Almanac November 11, 2014).

Almanac Publication Schedule

There are issues scheduled for November 14 and 21. The December AT PENN will be published in the November 21 issue. There is no issue the Tuesday after Thanksgiving.

Almanac resumes weekly publication with its issues on December 5, 12 and 19.

Controlled Substances Disposal Event: November 16

The Office of Environmental Health & Radiation Safety (EHRS) and the Office of Animal Welfare (OAW) will host an event to facilitate the disposal of registrants’ outdated and unwanted controlled substances.

The event is scheduled for November 16, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., in conference room 104 Stellar-Chance Laboratories, PSOM. The event is free of charge but registration is required. You must register by submitting an electronic drug transfer form by November 10. Additional information about the event and transfer forms can be found at the EHRS website (www.ehrs.upenn.edu). Contact Jim Crumley (215) 746-5036 if you have questions.

AT PENN Deadlines

The November AT PENN calendar is now online at www.upenn.edu/almanac. The deadline for the December AT PENN calendar is November 7.
Public Transportation Safety Tips

Become familiar with the different bus and trolley routes and their schedules. SEPTA schedules and general information are available by visiting www.septa.com or calling (215) 580-7800.

If you travel underground, be aware of the emergency call boxes on the platform. These phones contact SEPTA Police. The phones operate much like the University’s Blue Light Phones. To operate the SEPTA Phone, push the button. A SEPTA operator will identify your transit stop and assist you immediately.

• Whenever possible, try to sit near the driver.
• In the subway station, stand back from the platform edge.
• Pay attention to your surroundings.
• Don’t become complacent while using your cell phone or other devices.
• Don’t fall asleep! Stay alert!
• Do not display your money.
• Keep your bag or purse closed, close to you, and in your line of view.

Off Peak Travel Tips

• Request a Walking Escort by calling (215) 573-WALK (9255). The security officer will wait with you until you board the train, bus or trolley.
• When using subways, especially during off-peak hours, stand near the SEPTA call box.
• In case of an emergency, there is a cashier’s booth staffed during hours of operation.
• If possible, travel with a companion(s).

Blue Light Phones

• If you observe a potential safety hazard, would like a Walking Escort or require the Division of Public Safety’s assistance, you can use one of more than 700 blue light emergency phones on campus and in the surrounding community. Blue light phones are located across campus in garages, on the street and on buildings, and in elevators. Just pick up the receiver or press the button. Map of emergency phone locations: https://www.publicsafety.upenn.edu/about/security-technology/blue-light-ephones/

Safety Tips on the Street

• Do not display your smartphone when walking about. Keep it in your bag or pocket.
• Avoid using earphones when walking to ensure that you stay alert and aware of your surroundings.
• Stay in well-lit areas. Walk mid-point between curbs and buildings, away from alleys, entries and bushes. Stay near people.
• Avoid short cuts through parks, vacant lots and other low-occupancy places.
• Carry only necessary credit cards and money. Avoid using outdoor ATMs. Instead, look for banks that require entry into a lobby to use their ATM.
• If you must carry a purse or handbag, keep it close to your body. This will minimize the chances of theft. If your purse is taken, don’t fight. Turn it over and immediately call 911.
• Walk with someone whenever possible. Participate in buddy systems.
• Do not stop to give directions or other information to strangers.
• Never hitchhike.
• If you believe you are being followed, call 911. Be alert and confident—making good eye contact may discourage the follower. Cross the street, change directions or vary your pace. If someone follows you in a car, record the license number and call 911 immediately.
• Have your key out and ready before you reach your car or door.
• Trust your instincts and use common sense.

Additional Services Available on Penn’s Campus

LUCY Loop

LUCY (Loop through University City) is a shuttle operating Monday through Friday, from 6:10 a.m. until 7 p.m., between 30th Street Station and University City. Managed by the University City District and operated by SEPTA, LUCY is a great way to ease your commute. Rides are free for holders of a valid PennCard. Schedule and route information is maintained by the University City District. For more information visit: www.universitycity.org/getting_around/lucy

Walking Escort (215) 898-WALK (9255)

Uniformed Allied Universal Public Safety Officers provide walking escorts to all campus locations. Officers are dispatched by radio and will accompany you from one campus location to another, to your parked vehicle, to a Penn Transit Stop or to an on-campus SEPTA regional transit stop. Available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, between 30th to 43rd Streets and Market Street to Baltimore Avenue.

Escorts are also available from 10 a.m. until 3 a.m. between 30th & 50th streets and Spring Garden Street to Woodland Avenue via the University’s partnership with the University District Ambassador Program.

How to Request a Walking Escort:

Ask any Public Safety Officer on patrol or inside a building

Call (215) 898-WALK (9255) or 511 (from campus phone)

Use one of the many building and blue-light e-phones located on and off Penn’s Campus.

Riding Escort (215) 898-RIDE (7433)

Penn Transit Services: (215) 898-RIDE (7433) Monday-Sunday, 6 p.m.-3 a.m. Limited on-call service, 3 a.m.-7 a.m. Business Services’ Penn Transit offers various transportation services that you can use for getting around University City or simply just getting to your car. For more information, visit www.upenn.edu/PennTransit

Penn Guardian

Penn Guardian is a free app that is available to all Penn community members. It was developed by the University’s safety partner Rave Guardian, a service utilized on college campuses across the country.

Registering is easy; search “Rave Guardian” in the App Store for iOS devices or Google Play for Android devices. You will be prompted to enter your name, phone number and Penn email address, which provides access to the University’s customized interface. Calls from a registered phone will allow Penn Police to determine your cell phone’s GPS location. This information will only be available to Penn Police if you call the PennComm Operations Center directly, either through the app or at (215) 573-3333.

The app also allows users to create a Smart911 profile, in which medical conditions, medications, allergies and disabilities can be included. This information can also be viewed at other Smart911-enabled emergency response centers across the country should you need to call them.

If a call is made to PennComm, and you are unable to speak—perhaps because of an allergic reaction—a call taker will send a text message to your phone. You can then communicate directly via text.

The app includes other features, including a confidential way to submit a tip to Penn Police—with a photo, if necessary —through a text message.

For more information, please visit the Penn Guardian website at www.publicsafety.upenn.edu/penn guardian
