

CHINATOWN

pennttracks WALKING TOURS OF PHILADELPHIA

OVERVIEW:

This tour takes you through the Asian cultural center of Philadelphia. Chinatown offers a variety of amazing cuisines including Japanese, Thai, Cambodian, Burmese, Laotian, Malaysian, and Vietnamese. Churches, temples, artwork, and a concert hall are also highlights.

WHY YOU SHOULD RETURN:

Chinatown offers the opportunity to sample cuisines from nearly every country in Asia. The Pennsylvania Convention Center is the second largest convention center in the Northeast and stages such shows as the International Auto Show in February and the Flower Show in March. At the Reading Terminal Market you can buy seafood, cheesesteaks, baked goods from Pennsylvania Dutch merchants, and any other food you could want. Plus, Philly's Hard Rock Café is located on the corner of 12th and Market streets.

Take the Green Line trolley to 13th Street or the Blue Line subway to 11th Street to start your tour.

1.) Friendship Gate 10th and Arch streets

Built as an exchange between Philadelphia and its sister city in China, Tianjin, this ornate gate was dedicated on January 31, 1984. It is the first authentic Chinese gate built in America by artisans from China. The graphic patterns, based on mythical creatures from the Ming and Qing dynasties, include a phoenix, which symbolizes good luck and long life, as well as a dragon, which has the power to keep water in its mouth and protect the community from fire.

2.) Chinese Cultural and Community Center 10th between Arch and Cherry streets

After World War II, a family-oriented Chinese community emerged in Philadelphia. As a result, both religious and secular community organizations began to develop. This center was originally formed at the YMCA in 1955, and later became specific to Chinatown. It offers various classes, has youth groups, and sponsors the Chinese New Year Parade.

3.) Fire Station 10th and Cherry streets

Originally established on July 4, 1791 as part of the Diligent Volunteer Fire Company, it was located on the south side of Market near 8th Street. After moving several times, it settled on June 5, 1956 in its present location. The station is nicknamed the "House of Dragons."

4.) 1st Laundry/H.K. Golden Phoenix Restaurant 913 Race Street

The first Chinese laundry was started by Lee Fong in 1870. Because Chinese workers encountered widespread racism and difficulty finding work when they first arrived in the U.S., many Chinese laborers found a niche in occupations considered unpleasant, such as laundry services. The first Chinese restaurant, Mei-Hsiang Lou, was founded just 10 years later by Fong's cousin. Today, the H.K. Golden Phoenix restaurant stands in its place. Coffee lovers should seek out Ray's Café and Tea House, at 141 N. 9th Street, for its amazing menu.

5.) Chinese Benevolent Association 930 Race Street

Mutual assistance societies, known as tongs, provide services within America's Chinatown communities. In 1951, the Chinese Benevolent Association was created in Philadelphia to appease conflicts between different associations. In addition to helping immigrants with housing and organizing traditional cultural events.

6.) Chinese Christian Church and Center 225 N. 10th Street

Established in 1941, CCC&C continues to serve as a center of cultural and religious activity, and is inextricably linked to Chinatown's history.

7.) Dim Sum at Ocean Harbor and Joy Tsin Lao Race between 10th and 11th streets

These well-known Chinese restaurants are right across the street from one another. Carts constantly pass your table as you point to the dishes you want, allowing you to sample many different menu items in one meal.

8.) Trocadero 1003 Arch Street

Once a burlesque hall, the Trocadero is now a great venue for rock shows. See www.thetroc.com for more information.

9.) Pennsylvania Convention Center 1101 Arch Street

This was the single largest public construction project in Pennsylvania. Since it opened in 1993 as part of a pattern of urban redevelopment, the Convention Center has welcomed over 5 million visitors.

10.) Reading Terminal Market 12th and Arch streets

This is part of the Reading Railroad that you know from the Monopoly game. Though the trains no longer rumble overhead, the old train shed is now the century-old Reading Terminal Market, an unrivaled testament to the rich flavors of the city's ethnic neighborhoods. Treasured by locals and tourists alike, the market brings together a variety of food cuisines under one roof: Amish pretzels, steaks, and hoagies — all Philly originals!

See www.phillychinatown.com for listings of Asian supermarkets, household items, gifts, and more information.

To get back to Penn, take the Blue Line from 11th and Market streets to 34th Street or the Green Line (except the 10) from 13th and Market streets to 37th and Spruce streets.

Tour developed by Poor Richard's Walking Tours

CHINATOWN

Wallace
Mt. Vernon
Green
Brandywine
Spring Garden

19th
18th
17th
16th
15th

Broad

13th
12th
11th
10th
9th
Hamilton
Callowhill

Ridge Ave.

Fairmount Ave.
Green
Spring Garden

Delaware Ave.

Benjamin Franklin Parkway

Free Library of Philadelphia

Logan Circle

Race
Cherry
Arch
JFK

Academy of Natural Sciences Museum

Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts

Convention Center

Reading Terminal Market

2

3

7

4

5

6

Vine St. / I-676

Camac

Franklin Square

Painted Bride Art Center

Race
Arch

Betsy Ross House

Elfreth's Alley

Arden Theatre

Suburban Station

JFK Plaza

The Gallery

Independence Mall

Market
Ludlow

Liberty Place

City Hall

Avenue of the Arts

13th
12th
11th
10th

Atwater Kent Museum

Ritz at the Bourse

Chestnut
Sansom

Prince Music Theater

Independence Park

Ritz East Theater

Penn's Landing

Walnut
Locust

Rittenhouse Square

Academy of Music
Merriam Theater

Forrest Theatre

Walnut Street Theatre

Washington Square

Ritz 5 Theater

Dock

Spruce

Panama
Cypress Delancey
Pine

Panama
Waverly Addison

Kimmel Center
University of the Arts

The Wilma Theater

Mask & Wig Clubhouse

Cypress Clinton

Addison

23rd

Lombard
Naudain
South
Kater

18th
17th
16th
15th

Broad

Bainbridge

Rodman

South Street

6th
5th
4th
3rd
2nd
Front

I-95