I’d been...preparing for a ... rally to be held at St. A’s on the fifth of July, the day when black Americans in the nineteenth century celebrated American freedom and protested their lack of it.